

A word cloud of Russian words, likely from the novel 'Crime and Punishment'. The words are arranged in a circular pattern, with the most prominent words in the center. The words are color-coded: orange for the most frequent words, red for the next most frequent, and green and blue for the least frequent. The words are in various orientations, including horizontal, vertical, and diagonal.

heard porfiry
moment mother woman
perhaps old make seemed felt right made eyes put asked thought razumihin came thats say tell believe took money shall back door
ive good katerina
want last
hand away man one went never looking dounia two little looked ill well know come said see room turned petrovitch must face way look first day people saw quite suddenly can ivanovna everything think head going may nothing get without take stood another
long might